We know that Firestone Motor-cycle Tires will deliver more miles per dollar. If we weren't sure of it we wouldn't be selling Firestones—we'd choose some other make.

But we know that the extra rubber, the extra fabric and the extra angles against skid that are built into every Firestone Motor-cycle Tire will deliver service that satisfies.

The proofs are on file; read the list of racing victories for this year; the records in every line of service. They will lead you to say: "Firestone for mine."

Aerial view of Brooklyn waterfront fire.

One of the most spectacular blazes seen in years recently swept the steamer Halford at the Bush docks, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Twenty-four firemen, cut off on the pier by the fumes from the hold of the vessel, caused by the explosion of chemicals with which she was loaded, barely got ashore without injury. The ship was towed into the stream and the tugs fought the blaze there.

Mints to the Housewife

TAKING CARE OF THE SEWING MACHINE

If you go into a boiler room or power station you cannot fail to be impressed with the condition of the various machines. No surplus oil is allowed to collect, surfaces are kept clean and polished until they shine and the whole room has the immaculate appearance of a hospital. This is not mere masculine fastidiousness. The efficiency and life of the machine depend upon this constant care.

The most complicated piece of machinery usually found in a household is the sewing machine and yet nine out of ten of them are allowed to deteriorate because of lack of attention. Dust is swept onto them and oil to dry on them until only a mighty pressure will turn the wheels. If you have never mastered the contents of your book of directions, that is the first thing to be done. Understand the various attachments and their uses perfectly, even if learning to use them takes time. It will save time in the end.

If this advice comes too late and your machine is already in a wheezing condition, if the bobbin winder makes only every other revolution and the treadle requires considerable muscular effort, spend half a day on the perfect machine and you'll find it as good as new.

First place it in a warm place near the stove or radiator or over the hot air register. The heat will melt the caked oil. Keep it in the warm place while you clean it. Wipe away the old oil with a piece of old muslin or some cloth that does not lint, and clean thoroughly all the iron work. Oil thoroughly with paraffin, work it quickly for a few moments, wipe off the excess paraffin and dirt, and apply more paraffin sparingly. Wipe off once more and after the application of a very little machine oil it is ready for use. Don't try to over-oil it. That is as bad as not oiling it at all. Oil it frequently but very little and wipe off the places around the oiling holes with a warm cloth if you see the oil running out.

Keep the strap tight. All you need is a pair of pliers and a hammer to tighten it from time to time. To worry along with a worn-out strap is no economy. Straps are cheap and a tight strap saves effort in treading. Observe particularly the rules in the book of directions about changing needles and thread for fabrics of different weight. Your finished garment will be far more satisfactory if you are careful about such details.

HIVES

Apply castor oil internally and externally. Hives are due to a digestive irregularity, therefore a physic is necessary to remove them, but since this takes a day or two and the itching must be relieved more speedily, castor oil should be applied to the skin where the hives appear.

OILCLOTH DOILIES

Oilcloth doilies save washing and may be as attractive for the table as any linen. Buy a good color—bright red, green, yellow or blue if you can find them at the store (sign makers can often buy these unusual shades) and cut in circular shape—six ten-inch circles, six six-inch circles and a center piece, with three-inch glass doilies if you want them. Cut the edges carefully in scallops or sa-tooth shape. They may be stenciled, if you have a boy or girl who can do this, but the design must be set with flat so that they may be easily washed. All that is necessary is to wipe them with a damp cloth. For breakfast or luncheon they are very attractive and save a great deal of washing. They are a vast improvement over the old family oilcloth that is such an unattractive setting for a meal.

REMOVING COLOR

When preparing material for dyeing, especially old garments that have faded, much of the color may be removed by boiling in cream of tartar water.
